WE NOMINATE

Samuel Bahadurian, 36-year old, lifelong Princetonian, who this weekend, as the members of the Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce assemble at the Nassau Tavern Hotel, will be awarded the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award—the highest honor the nationwide service organization can confer upon a member. Reserved for "outstanding achievement," and marking the first time it has been bestowed upon a Princeton Jaycee, the award symbolizes the thought, time and effort Bahadurian has given over the past six years to an amazing variety of community ventures.

Ever since he helped bring the Jaycees into being in 1952, Bahadurian, widely known as a specialist in the sales and service of oriental rugs, has been a little-publicized driving-force behind undertakings that have come to mean a great deal to hundreds of Princetonians, particularly to 'teen-agers. He played a leading role in the establishment of the 'Teen-Age Canteen and in 1956, its critical third year, was Canteen chairman. Both the 'Teen-Age Road-e-o, a pioneering auto-safety promotion, and the now annual Post-Prom Dance, following the High School's Senior Promenade, benefited from his leadership in their formative stages.

Although he has now reached the exalted status of an "Exhausted Rooster", the irreverent title Jaycees reserve for any member reaching his 36th birthday, he remains active in Jaycee-sponsored programs. This month, for instance, Bahadurian has been instrumental in collecting "Dear Santa Letters" from 73 unfortunate youngsters at the nearby Neuro-Psychiatric Institute—and for making sure that each of these boys and girls will be remembered at Christmas. In recent years he has organized summer outings for youthful patients at the Institute and has also lent a hand with evening recreational programs.

A member of the Princeton High School Class of 1940, who in his upperclass years started assuming heavy responsibilities in the business founded by his Turkish-born father some 40 years ago, Bahadurian typifies what one writer terms a "passion for service and anonymity." When the Ground Observer Corps was calling for volunteers, he responded and, characteristically, "took on" the midnight-to-2:00 a.m. shift. He has been treasurer, secretary and board member of the Jaycees, has worked overtime on State Tennis Tournaments in Princeton and has opened his State Road home to children nominated by the N. Y. Herald Tribune's Fresh Air Fund.

Bahadurian, described by a Jaycee associate as "the pace-setter for every one in our service programs," has marked capacity for doing well whatever he might elect to undertake—even in his avocations. He prides himself on "shish kebabs" and last summer carried off high honors in an outdoor cooking contest. An outdoor enthusiast, with unlimited interest in both deep-sea and trout fishing, he is also a ballet addict and finds outlets for his artistic energies by painting extremely appealing landscapes.

For providing the kind of quiet, understanding leadership that contributes so much to a community's well-being; for believing so implicitly in all of the things he believes in; for meriting the recognition his fellow Jaycees are extending to him this weekend; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

GIFTS THAT LAST

Help Provided All Year Long. On a blustery March day, when the wind still cows the thermometer into a hiding place below the freezing mark, a child is warm inside a coat that might not otherwise have been his. On a warm spring afternoon, a little girl romps happily with her playmates, stronger and healthier because money is there for an extra milk allotment that her family could not itself have provided.

When the very sidewalks steam in the sultriness of July humidity, two weeks at camp in a cooler location than Princeton bring not only day-to-day pleasure but the awareness of group participation on an equal basis. Later in the year, a dentist's bill is paid for treatment that will prevent trouble in adult life; shoes are provided that keep young feet from cold and wet; and when Christmas blankets the land, it becomes a time of wonderment — not of longing for what cannot be.

Each year now, for more than a decade, the Princeton community has made sure than those less fortunate than themselves know the happiness of being remembered. Whereas the original TOWN TOPICS' appeals were made with the thought of tiding a needly family over the holidays, the response quickly grew until the Christmas Fund is actually a part of Princeton's charitable work all year long.

As the Family Service Agency (which investigates all cases for which the annual appeal is made), reports periodically to TOWN TOPICS, one or more Princeton area families benefit from the Fund every day in the year. Time and again, the Agency emphasizes that whereas the material assistance in the form of clothing, food allowances, receipted fuel and medical bills mean much, it is the knowledge that "a neighbor cares" that goes so far to achieve lasting rehabilitation.

Happily for thousands in the community, this solidly-stabilized area was literally aware for the most part that there was a recession only because of constant headlines reporting a major dip in employment and a corresponding drop in the dollar flow. Salaried and wage-earning Princetonians kept a wary eye on inflation, but few incomes dipped sharply and even less were curtailed completely.

Recession or not, there are families in our midst who bend every effort to become self-supporting but inevitably cannot make ends meet — no matter what the national economy. Inevitably, too, it is "the little people" who do without — at least on an equal basis with the adults — sometimes more so if the ceaseless struggle has created a lack of compassion.

In all the years that contributions have been sought by TOWN TOPICS, every penny of the more than $21,000 given by a generous community has gone to cases approved by the Family Service Agency. Nothing is ever withheld for administrative expenses.

Next week, TOWN TOPICS will present a detailed report on what Princeton can do to help as Christmas, 1958, draws near. In a constantly-growing community, the need is greater than ever before.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: Henry S. Chester Sr., a Borough employee for 31 years, hoists one of many new signs being placed on poles in downtown Princeton this week to indicate the functioning of street parking meters until 9 Friday evenings, starting this Friday. Shoppers using municipal lots from 6 to 9 Friday evenings will be permitted to park free.

PLANNERS ACT

Urge Okay for Miss Fine's. Having studied long-range proposals for a new Miss Fine's School — in the light of Princeton Township's "master plan" — the Township Planning Board this week recommended that the municipality's Zoning Board "okay" the necessary residential-area property to make such an institution of the future possible. A week earlier, the Zoning Board had granted the school a special permit to use an 18-acre tract on The Great Road for its growth, pending Planning Board approval.

As a result of the Planning Board's endorsement, rendered at the organization's regular December meeting Monday evening, it was considered likely that the trustees of Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day School will find the going much smoother in their endeavors to switch both school plants to a combined site on The Great Road. The trustees have made known their desire to locate on a 58-acre tract on the west side of the road —20 acres for each school to be donated by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mathey, plus the 18-acre "Colross" property that Miss Fine's has acquired.

ROUND-UP

NOTES OF NOTE: Bravo to the Symphonic Choir of Westminster Choir College, which earned rave reviews for its work with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra on TV last Sunday! . . . some 140 tons of coal, bound for Lawrenceville School, were the subject of considerable consternation at mid-week, since the four-car Reading train transporting them jumped the single track of the old Johnson trolley line six days ago and wound up in a heavily-wooded area of Lawrence Township . . . the Committee of 10 organizing "New Year's Eve at the Nass" announced at press time that half of its tickets for the brand-new event have been sold, with hopes high that the maximum of 100 couples will be in the fold by December 10 . . . Charles Spruill, 16, of 331 Witherspoon Street, received a six-month workhouse sentence for his Thanksgiving assault and battery of Mrs. Mary Green, another roomer at the same address . . . Anonymous - But - True - Story-Of-The-Week: The one about the Princeton gentleman who read three-fourths of John O'Hara's "From The Terrace," grew so annoyed that he tossed it into the fireplace, then bought another copy at the U-Store next day to see if it might end better.

AROUND TOWN: Queen of the Hellenes Frederika spent an active day in Princeton this Wednesday, touring Forrestal Research Center, lunching with the Goheens, visiting faculty members and Greek students and dining with the Oppenheimers . . . tickets for the 1958 Triangle Show, "For Heaven's Sake," were selling rapidly as TOWN TOPICS went to press, with top seats still available for next Thursday evening and the Saturday (Dec. 13) matinee only . . . Dr. Reinhold Neihuhr, world-famous author, theologian and professor of Union Theological Seminary, will deliver the University Chapel sermon at 11 a.m. this Sunday . . . residents of Herrontown Road and Herrontown Circle, after conducting an emergency session Monday evening in Township Hall to discuss their acute drainage problems, decided a sewer connection probably will be the only answer, assuming they can determine exact installation costs—and the costs aren't too high . . . the Borough Engineering office has moved from Borough Hall (third floor) to the Community House (ground floor) and already is "in the mood," thanks to different dancing classes on both sides of it and even above it . . . two buses representing mobile classrooms of the Public Schools of Jersey City (carrying "Mohammed to the mountain") will be granted a Borough police escort from Princeton Inn to Morven at 3:15 this Friday afternoon.

SHORT SHOTS: Nassau Estates, now 185 homes strong in Lawrence Township, seven miles west of Princeton on Princeton Pike, has started construction of 275 to 300 new houses — in the $22,000 price range — across the Pike from the initial subdivision . . . no official word regarding 1959 rates from the Joint Operating Sewer Committee, but the Township, with 142 new connections so far this year, definitely will pay a bigger percentage of the total tab . . . deer season with firearms will commence Monday morning, which means Township residents should redouble their efforts to report violations of the municipality's hunting ordinance . . . henceforth, no parking will be allowed on Lincoln Court at any time, according to Borough officials . . . during November, there were 71 traffic deaths in New Jersey, a 20 per cent reduction from the 89 recorded in November, 1957 . . . offices of the Central State Health District of the New Jersey State Department of Health are now located at 129 East Hanover Street in Trenton . . . "MEETINGEST" MONDAY

When? December 8! It may not really be the "meetingest" Monday in the Princeton area's history, but next Monday—December 8— certainly is going to be chock-full of meetings, and important ones, too. While Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. is trying to make up for lost time in Borough Court, after a bout with the "bug," the Borough Planning Board will be busy with the subject of Urban Renewal, the Township Committee will wrestle with such assorted items as liquor every Sunday and extension of "master plan" planning, and the Lawrence Township Board of Education will consider what to do with its defeated bond issue.

As required by the Federal Government and desired by Princeton Borough's leaders, a vital public hearing on Urban Renewal in the so-called "blight" area bordered by Witherspoon, Hulfish, John and Green Streets will begin at 8 p.m. The "key" Planning Board session, expected to draw a large crowd of interested citizens, will be held in the Community House on Witherspoon—instead of Borough Hall, as originally announced—due to its conflict with Borough Court.

In Township Hall, at 8.30 p.m., the regular December meeting of the municipality's Committee will be highlighted by public hearings on a pair of comment-provoking ordinances. For one, citizens will be urged to discuss extension of the "master plan" contract for Isadore Candeub & Associates of Newark, originally hired to finish a 25-year plan for $10,300 by December 31. The extension would permit the firm to continue work on the complex plan until next July 1, for an extra $1,750.

Secondly, Township residents—especially tavern owners—will be welcome to debate a new ordinance which, if passed, will authorize the sale of alcoholic beverages with restaurant meals during specific hours on Sundays. It is expected that this ordinance will be supported by all five Committeemen, in view of a November 4 advisory referendum approving its intention by a 3-to-1 margin, but there will undoubtedly be a lot of discussion about the word "restaurant" and the controversial theory that a tavern is a restaurant if it serves some sort of food—and has been granted food-serving status by the Board of Health.

LUCKILY, MORE SMOKE THAN FIRE: While the nation continued to experience a plague of tragic school fires this past week, Princeton High School was the scene of a relatively minor blaze on Thanksgiving day. About 3:45 p.m., passerby Nick Kovalakides spotted smoke pouring from the girls' gym and summoned Princeton's volunteer firefighters. The firemen responded rapidly, despite the holiday, and managed to confine damage to a supply closet, several holes in the roof and a water-warped gym floor. Superintendent B. Woodhull Davis, who said the fire's cause was not faulty-wiring and probably never will be known for sure, placed the cost of the blaze at "about $10,000, mostly due to smoke." (R. Richardson Photo)

In Lawrence Township next Monday night, members of the Board of Education must decide whether or not to try again in two months or so for endorsement of $800,000-plus worth of bonds for school expansion at Lawrence Junior High and Slackwood Elementary, both crowded right now. Lawrence voters, by a count of 1080 to 637, defeated a similar proposal at the polls Tuesday. The measure was beaten at all three voting centers: 337 to 227 at Lawrenceville Elementary, 369 to 275 at Eldrige Park and 374 to 135 at Slackwood (one of the schools to be benefited).

Assuming everyone gets through Monday before it is Tuesday, Borough residents will then have an opportunity to be heard at the regular December meeting of Council at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Borough Hall. According to Mayor Raymond F. Male, who this week kept a 1957 campaign promise by providing the press with an advance agenda of Council's plans for the 12th consecutive month, the meeting will feature introduction of two ordinances. One would give the community a wholly new fire prevention code, while the other would amend the housing code to provide standards for occupancy, thus complying with one of the Federal requirements for Urban Renewal.

NURSING SCHOOL PLANNED

By Princeton Hospital. To alleviate the critical shortage of nurses in the Princeton area, Princeton Hospital's Board of Trustees has voted to establish a School of Practical Nursing. John H. Wallace, Jr., president of the Board, pointed out that the shortage of nurses in Princeton Hospital and Merwick has kept 32 medical and surgical beds inactive for more than two months.

"It has been a matter of deep concern to all of us to see vitally-needed beds stand empty for lack of nurses to care for patients. We can only be thankful that no major epidemic or disaster occured during this period," said Mr. Wallace, in announcing the Board's decision.

Plans call for a school which would accept 40 students a year in spring and fall classes of 20 each. The program, to be administered by the hospital with registered nurses in charge, will be 52 weeks long with one-third of the time devoted to preclinical studies and the remaining two-thirds to clinical work. Men and women between the ages of 18 and 45 will be accepted.

The first major step will be the addition of a wing to Lambert House to provide classroom space and additional rooms for nurses. Lambert House is completely full now and expanding its residential facilities would help to ease the nurse shortage, according to Mr. Wallace.

The school will be self-supporting and will not add to the operating cost of the hospital; however, $152,000 will be needed to build the addition to Lambert House and the Hospital plans to ask the Princeton community for contributions.

Last September, Board members invited a national authority in the field of practical nursing to discuss the possibilities of a school, and at that time, a special committee was appointed, with Mrs. Bradford B. Locke as chairman. Extensive studies made by the hospital itself as well as the opinions of national authorities in the field of medical care, convinced the Board of the value of such a school.

The trained, licensed practical nurse has basic education and training that are similar to those of the more highly-trained professional. In establishing a school of practical nursing, Princeton Hospital is following a national trend: the number of practical nursing programs has increased nationwide from 144 in 1951 to 479 in 1957.

Mr. Wallace said that studies indicate that the licensed practical nurse tends to stay in the community where she receives her training. Therefore the Hospital's program will benefit the community at large because the licensed practical nurse's training prepares her for home-care programs as well as nursing care in hospitals.

According to John Kauffman, administrator of Princeton Hospital, the staff and Trustees are aiming for an opening date in September, 1959. The drive to raise funds for the new building probably will begin within a month, Mr. Kauffman said.

Baby, It's Cold Outside

Grab the blankets,
Man alive!
A "high" each night
Of 25.

—I. C. Toes

The trend to colder weather was completely contrary to long-range predictions for the first half of December, the Man agreed. The Weather Bureau in Washington had foreseen temperatures above normal through the 15th of the month, but they've been running well below the average of 43 for this time of year. Last Sunday, for example, the low was a mere 15 above zero.

It will remain cold through Sunday, with a chance of rain Thursday and again Friday night. Slightly warmer winds are expected to keep the rain from turning to snow, but Saturday and Sunday are expected to see the thermometer dip well below the freezing point again.

STRANGE MISHAPS

Sour Holiday Tone. A series of unusual traffic accidents kept Princeton area police wondering what might happen next over the weekend, and also took the edge off the Thanksgiving holidays for some of the participants. Included in the series were two mishaps involving cars backing out of driveways, an auto-pedestrian clash and a bicycle-auto collision.

Shortly after 5 Friday afternoon, Renato R. Carazzai, 23, of 19 Leigh Avenue, turned west on a green light at the intersection of Nassau Street and Washington Road and, in making the turn, struck Miss Helen E. Hoagland, 56, of 236 Nassau, who was walking in the crosswalk toward the Garden Theatre. The motorist drove Miss Hoagland to Princeton Hospital, where 14 sutures were required to close a cut in the back of her head. No citation was issued against the driver.

An hour later, Borough police were called to William Street, where a truck operated by William V. Manley, 26, of Trenton, had just rammed into the rear of a sedan belonging to Peter F. Andrews, 27, of 169 Nassau, causing

PLAYERS BUSY

One-Acters Next Week. A pair of one-act plays, the first direct result of John Becker's "Directors' Workshop," will be presented by the Princeton Community Players at 8:30 next Tuesday evening at the Playmill on Alexander Street. The one-acters will be open to the public free of charge.

First on the program will be "The Valiant," directed by Julian Wick. Then, "A Merry Death," a harlequinade directed by Fran Keene, will be offered.

Rehearsals for the Players' production of "The Christmas Story," now a well-established feature of the Yule season in Princeton, have commenced at the Playmill. Accompanied by narration and music, the Players will tell the story of Christmas in pictures from the Scrovigni Chapel in Padua, painted by Giotto. Performances have been scheduled for 5:30 December 20, 4 and 5:30 December 21 and 6 December 22.

Last week end, the Players completed a gratifying six-show run of "Visit to a Small Planet" with 120 customers in attendance Friday evening and another sell-out audience Saturday night. A turnout of 25 or so at the Saturday matinee, a duplication of the previous Saturday afternoon, may have convinced PCP leaders that future productions should be given three evenings each week end instead of two evenings and an afternoon.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Me and the Colonel (December 4-6), based on the novel and subsequent Broadway hit, "Jacobowsky and the Colonel," represents a real departure for headliner Danny Kaye — a tour de force which finds him portraying a wandering Jew who is comic, but not a comic, in a little "comedy of a tragedy." Generally entertaining, the film is sometimes amusing and often touching, thanks to some fine acting by Kaye, Curt Jurgens, Nicole Maurey, Alex Scourby and Akim Tamiroff.

"Colonel," directed by Peter Grenville and produced by Gilliam Goetz for Columbia, concerns the misadventures of a Jewish trader and a Polish colonel (Jurgens) who are obliged to escape Nazi-threatened Paris together, though the arrogant officer detests Jews. Kaye's connivery keeps the two men and their gal friend (Miss Maurey) out of the Germans' grasp, after a series of close calls, but Kaye is finally captured. He protects information about the colonel's "secret mission," then is saved by the repentant Pole.

Party Girl (December 7-9) offers Robert Taylor a chance to replay a role he has acted many times in the past, and it brings to the screen an old-fashioned gangster melodrama that is no more original than the paintings in the Playhouse lobby. In short, Taylor is cast as a crooked lawyer who goes straight, with the help and love of a comely night club hoofer (Cyd Charisse), and Lee J. Cobb, personifying everything evil about the 1920s, is cast as a big-shot mobster who goes down in a blaze of bullets.

Despite its all-too-familiar approach, "Party Girl" ranks above some of its predecessors because Cobb makes a wonderfully nasty badman and Miss Charisse, all dressed up in Metrocolor and CinemaScope, is pretty enough to make any mouthpiece say, "Shut my mouth!" The elaborate production comes complete with cight experienced hoodlums, including John Ireland and Kent Smith, plus 25 glamorous show girls for the night club scenes and apartment parties.

Tunnel of Love (December 10-13), based on the New York stage comedy which enjoyed a moderately successful run last year, loses some of its spice in the transition from stage to screen, but remains tangy enough to be classified as "adult" film fare. Devoted to a series of marital mix-ups, the story deals with a young couple who have trouble adopting a baby, especially since Richard Widmark is a none-too-bright husband and Gia Scala is a much-too-attractive social worker.

To add to the merriment, Doris Day turns in a light-hearted, tuneful performance as Widmark's wife and Gig Young contributes another fine comedy characterization as a roving-eyed neighbor with a prolific reputation. Several of the situations are rather conveniently contrived; yet, they poke an amused finger at some of the fads, fancies and foibles of suburban society, with fast and flip dialogue, and result in an enjoyable 95 minutes of fun.

THE GARDEN

Pot Bouille (December 4-6), in French with English titles, is a sexy bedroom farce by Emile Zola that co-stars two favorites on both sides of the Atlantic, Gerard Philipe and Danielle Darrieux. A social satire depicting the elastic morals and hypocrisy of mid-19th Century France, this elaborately produced, generally amusing "adult" comedy details the adventures of an ambitious Parisian youth who roam through shops, boulevards and boudoirs conquering women.

Lucky Jim (December 8-10) is Ian Carmichael, the perpetually befuddled star of "Private's Progress" and "Brothers in Law," who portrays a junior lecturer in this latest import from the Boulting Brothers, a filmization of a satirical novel of British university life. Not always quite as lucky as the title implies, Carmichael goes through a number of rib-tickling difficulties before he finally winds up with teaching honors and the girl (in this instance Canadian Sharon Acker). Terry-Thomas, the pompous captain of "Private's Progress," carries over some of that delight-to-behold smugness to the part of a highbrow novelist.

"PORT OF SHADOWS"

French Club to Sponsor Film. The French Club of Princeton University will show "Port of Shadows" ("Quai des Brumes") at 9 p.m. this Thursday in 10 McCosh Hall on the University campus. The film, which will have English subtitles, was produced by Marcel Carne and Jacques Prevert from a novel by Pierre Mac Orlan.

Starring Michele Morgan, Jean Gabin, Michel Simon and Pierre Brasseur, "Port of Shadows" is the story of 24 hours in Le Havre with a deserter from the army. Individual tickets are 50 cents, while subscription cards for the entire series are available at the University Store at $2.25.

MUSIC NOTES

String Quartet to Play. The Claremont String Quartet will appear at both Littlebrook School and Miss Fine's School Friday morning. The Littlebrook program is scheduled for 9 and the quartet will appear at Miss Fine's at 11:30.

Young Audiences, Inc., of New York has developed and sponsored the series of programs for school children. Princeton is one of the oldest subscribers to the organization.

Miss Suzanne Fremon, 311 Western Way, played a group of piano solos last week at the Horace Mann School in New York. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fremon and a pupil of Mary B. Boyd of Princeton.

IT'S NEW To Us

A BUNDLE OF TOYS

Of Dolls and Missiles. This year's toy pack is just as bulging and bursting as it was last year, but there isn't very much that is radically new. The so-called "electronic" toys that burst upon the field a few years ago have now become staple gifts for little boys, and of course little girls are now blase about their vast collections of eight and ten-inch dolls.

The newest toy is the one based on the missile and it's safe to say that practically every boys' Christmas present this year has been tested at Cape Canaveral. These missiles come in models—make 'em and look at 'em—or in actual functioning mock-ups and you can buy them at Pastimes, the toy store in Washington Crossing, Pennsylvania; Stuff 'n Nonsense at 10 Moore in Princeton (although this store does not specialize in toys of this kind); the Princeton Hobby Center on Witherspoon Street, Mall Camera, Tiger Auto and Urken's.

There's a Remote Control Moon Car with a Magic Wand that finds the path and dictates direction (provide your own little green men.)

The Alpha I Ballistic Missile is completely safe, ready for flight and durable which is about all the taxpayer can ask for. It has remote-control launching. If you don't think one missile is enough for total defense, there is a Missile Arsenal ($2.98) that has 'em all, very much in miniature.

Bomarc, Vanguard, Nike, Matador, Corporal and the full complement of satellites are all available—in plastic models that you put together yourself. And there's a magnetic Sputnik that can go into orbit in your living-room.

But of course, push-button war will only accomplish limited objectives. Now, take the Pom-Pom electronic gun or any of the components of the immense arsenal at Tiger Auto, Urken and Pastimes. Signal towers, machine gun sets, a survival rifle, guided missile carriers, rocket launchers and a sky sweeper. Urken has a fine set of tough, yet flexible plastic army vehicles: trucks, soldiers, trains, etc. There is even a mess sergeant's kit.

All of this concerns the present, but past wars are commemorated in the regiments of toy soldiers at Pastimes, the Zorro outfits at Urken's and the shootin' irons at Urken's and Tiger for the pursuit of range warfare. We want a smoking pistol in a swivelshot holster — "You'll never take me alive, marshal!"

Fluff and Stuff. Now to softer and sweeter pursits. There is an endearing stuffed dog around this year, loosely jointed and floppy enough to drape over your shoulder and snuggle against your ear. We found him, all two-and-one-half feet long of him, at The Little Clothesline and Stuff 'n Nonsense. Perhaps too large for a very small child, he will be greeted with squeals of delight by anybody over the age of eight. $10.

At The Little Clothesline, there is an orlon pile angel, pink, with furry hair, a kangaroo and her baby in orlon pile and a big felt frog with a turtle neck sweater and a bulldog with Y—E on his back. A felt gingerbread man is stuffed to make a pillow. He has a clown friend.

Stuff 'n Nonsense takes three little kittens; pink, white or yellow fur, and nestles them in a little basket without their mittens. This is the shop that has Christopher Robin's friends, stuffed and covered with smooth cloth. A Shetland pony ($3 and $5) is a good cuddle toy. He has a long white string mane and tail.

At Thorne's, a stuffed Santa ($1.98) carries an empty sack for you to fill with candy or, toys. A giraffe, a lion and a tiger in brilliant yellow plush, have huge wistful eyes and baby faces. "Rusty" is a Pekingese cocker made of brown jersey, and his friend is a plaid dog, sad and floppy, for $1.98.

Styrofoam, or something that looks like it, makes the stuffed animals at Pastimes. We met a penguin, a teddy and a Santa. There's a plush bear puppet in this store with surprise presents inside, $1.98.

We liked the lamb at Clayton's that hangs on elastic and bounces over a crib when he isn't being taken to bed, a small grey elephant with one shaggy ear, a donkey, sleepy dogs and bears, a poodle with an incongruous Scotch beret, a black sheep and several alpaca teddy bears.

Allen's Children's Shop has stuffies, too, and so do Tiger and Urken where most of the soft toys have hard plastic faces. Urken's has a hibernating bear. Please do not disturb.

By Hand. For children who like to make things, the world is full of presents. Stuff 'n Nonsense and Pastimes have a Swedish loom ($6) that makes a five-inch strip of fabric. It is authentic and real with extremely detailed directions that an older child can follow herself. It's about a foot high and 16 inches long.

Stuff has one of the handsomest tool sets we've seen. It comes from France and it holds, within a box of dove-tailed wood, every tool you could imagine, even a small mitre box. $11.50.

Magic Music

A magic box that plays a sweet and delicate air, or a teddy bear that somehow produces a tune when you twist a key—buy a music box for Christmas and bring it out once a year with the treasured holiday keepsakes.

Stuff 'n Nonsense and the Cummins Shop have dozens of boxes topped with little leaves, fairy-tale figures, butterflies, Santas or children, some of them mobile when the music begins to play, others stationary. They are $2.25 and up at Stuff 'n Nonsense.

The Thorne Pharmacy has a plush dog with a Swiss digestive tract, Pastimes has an organ-grinder that turns his hurdy-gurdy while it plays and a tiny white telephone that plays "Frere Jacques" when you lift the receiver.

Clayton's $3.95 Santa turns slowly and so does his companion Christmas tree ($3.95), while the music inside spins out its tune.

Make it yourself? Stuff 'n Nonsense has real rhythm instruments, Tiger Auto has a set of drums (with leopard skin trim!) and Kung Ping has a bamboo flute from Japan.

Model builders will want the Three Musketeers, $3.98, in Christmas box at Princeton Radio Center. Here, too, are all the armored knights in models, a new church to build for H O train set-ups and the Swordfish clipper ship.

Painters will want a set of oils from Nassau Paint or Mall Camera. You may have an oil set for $14.50 at Mall. Try a Sculpt-by-Color set, the natural outgrowth of paint by number. Chisel an Indian. Sculpt a ballerina. Do a bust of Beethoven.

Little girls may embroider a sampler of Washington's face, the capitol dome and the U.S. map in between. This is at Tiger, where we also found many sewing sets (including a nifty little one with a real Necchi sewing machine included) and a set to make baskets out of beads and popsicle sticks.

Urken's has Disney's woodworking set (make Mickey Mouse) and an electric construction set (make a motor or a telegraph). Here is a play drill, just like daddy's, with low power that will mix, polish and drive screws and bolts in and out of a little work-bench.

For Mothers. Christmas means a new doll to many little girls who already have so many they can scarcely afford to feed them all. We like Kathy Kruse's German import at Stuff 'n Nonsense, a plain-jane sort of doll who wears a polka-dot dress, or maybe a gingham apron or a white nightie. She is about ten inches tall, with real hair that looks real, and she would be so comfortable to carry around.

Glamour dolls by Madame Alexander are in tremendous supply at Pastimes, in all sizes. There is now a 10-inch boy doll who can be brother or boy friend to any 10-inchers you have lying around. He has an Ivy League shirt and chinos, a windbreaker and cap, denims and a plaid bathrobe.

There are dolls at Tiger, Urken and Allen's, too: Tiny Tears, that full-bosomed Revlon doll, a doll that kneels, a baby doll that sniffles (guard your nose drops), a ballerina and, at Urken's, some very good-looking Negro dolls: babies, growing girls, 10-inchers or great big dolls almost the size of a child.

Tiger, Urken, stuff and Allen's all have doll furniture, and we particularly liked the 10-inch things at Urkens. There's a maple bed with a flowered flouncy bedspread, a matching skirted vanity and a rocker. Allen's has a garment and travel bag in plaid for these little dolls and some heavy cast iron cooking utensils in doll size (grandma will probably buy these out of sheer nostalgia).

Mixed-Up Blocks

They are flat white blocks, six inches square and about an inch thick, made of solid sturdy wood. Each one has painted on it in blue line design a section of a figure. Maybe it's a mermaid's tail, the head of a princess, the midsection of a frog, the feet of a goat.

Put them together any way you like, and you'll have, let's say, a trumpeter in a circus band whose mid-section is unaccountably scaly and whose feet are those of a little girl in a bathing suit.

You can even make these characters assume various positions if you stand some blocks upright and lay others flat on the floor. And for something really different, you can turn the blocks over and make geometric designs with the other side which has been divided into two triangles of red and white.

The blocks, in a convenient flat box, are $8 at Stuff 'n Nonsense and Pastimes in Washington Crossing.

Nitey-Nite at Allen's comes ready for bed ($2.98) in white Nitey-Nites with Christmas snow-scenes. This store has a massive maple double bunk for someone's very best dolls. Tiger has playpens, high-chairs, a crib that rocks gently on a frame and a super de-luxe washer-drier combination that works on four flashlight batteries and really washes and spins dry a doll dress or two. Pay $5.95, or move the decimal two places right and buy one for mommie. A stove that really bakes is $12.95.

Among its collection of doll dishes, Tiger has a barbecue set with "wooden" dishes and mugs and red and "yaller" plates. There's an appliance set at Pastimes with mixer, toaster, waffle-iron, "electric frying pan and a trim modern pineapple design on the white pieces.

Urken's has Fla-Vac by Mirro aluminum to keep doll house floors clean, and Revere ware cooking utensils, girl size.

You Win. Stuff 'n Nonsense has some excellent imported games and puzzles this year. Germany sends a new kind of lotto which has a fairy-tale picture in the middle and blank squares around the border. You fit little individual pictures into the blank squares if they correspond to what's in the big picture.

Lady-Bird Puck is a game of progression, this time through a garden of lovely flowers (instructions are in English, not German). Siege is a splendid game about knights and a Rhineland castle. World Cruise and Journey Through Europe explain themselves and so does Big Game Hunter. All from Germany.

Sneaky Pete's Magic Show turns up everywhere: Urken's, Tiger, Pestimes. Stuff has the Slim Slam Bim magic set in its suitcase. There is a black cloth to cover black magic, mysterious springs, cards and unspeakably arcane equipment. Ditto with Sneaky Pete.

We like the idea of Intrigue, the game in which you locate the stolen briefcase and find the diplomat's murderer. We suspect Sneaky Pete. There are games for Robin Hood fans, games for people who yearn to be Mickey Mantle. Careers for people who just yearn, Tic-Tac Dough and even chess for 98 cents at Tiger.

Puzzle fanciers will want the new three-dimensional ones at Stuff. Those maddening wooden puzzles from the Orient are at Kung Ping. Stuff has a Fairy-Tale series of 100-piece jig-saw puzzles ($2.25) with a choice of three scenes. Another jig-saw puz-

At Christmas and Year-Round

For The Horsey Set

Little girls—even more than little boys, curiously enough—sometimes go through a stage of infatuation for horses. This Christmas season has produced some fine presents for these children, whether they are two or considerably older.

Stuff 'n Nonsense has a splendid hobby horse for somebody whose saddle is still a pair of training pants. It's a stick with rope tail and a head of hard moulded rubber so life-like that you expect it to eat sugar.

In the same shop, there is a portfolio of horse prints, reproductions of pastels, actually. There are ten individual pictures, 14 by 16 inches, showing colts, colts and mares, a fiery thoroughred and so on. There's a story about each one, and the pictures are sufficiently adult to be a life-time possession. The set is $5.

Over the river at Pastimes, you'll find a magnificent sulky in which you can play country squire. Its horse is full of snorting life, even if he is painted wood, and there's a seat and reins and a chain-drive and pedals to carry you over the finish line. Costs . . . $59.95.

It's Now To Us

zle of the jungle has individual animals cut out in their true shape. You fit them into the jungle scene that you assemble.

When We Were Very Young. A two-foot ark on wheels with flat wooden animals and Noah himself, waits for some young Biblical scholar at Stuff. Nearby, for moderns, is a wooden garage with a door that slides down and a two-and-one-half-foot long wooden cart built of one-inch thick wood to carry blocks or builder with equal ease.

Pastimes' has Playskool's lock-up garage and Otto Jack, Urken's has Holgate's wooden sewing machine among the many items in each of these popular collections.

Pull-tops at Tiger include a cow, several impish monkeys and a stagecoach. Thorne's has Child Guidance, Childhood Interest and a splendidly noisy circus wagon xylophone. Goldilocks and the Three Bears perform in classic manner in their little house.

Playtex sends Thorne a baby gift box ($1.58) with polka-dot bib and panty, wrapped tastefully for the holiday.

Philip Farkouh in the Princeton Shopping Center has exquisitely made Philippine clothes for a baby's Christmas present.

The Little Clothesline's offering of the season is a set in pink, blue or yellow with a giant satin elf worked in trapunto on each piece. There is a laundry bag, a receiving blanket a quilt and the elf himself, stuffed.

Squeaky towel sets (small, large, wash-cloth) have three appliqued bears that squeak when you poke them. Here are Santa bibs, a Christmas diaper and shirt set with holly on white corduroy, in boy or girl style. A bib says "I Say It's Spinach" or "I'm Hungry, Please Feed Me." A suit says "Great Oaks from Little Acorns Grow" and a robe in red corduroy with a pigtail hood doesn't need to say anything at all.

Clothes for Christmas? Allen's has a large group of party dresses for little, middle-sized and big girls. There is black velvet, red velvet with Cavalier lace collar, white nylon over pink, red velvet duster over white Jacquard dress and a lovely, practical white party dress with red, but not in Christmas design, so it can be worn after the holidays. And who would resist a red velvet lounging pants, size three, with lace-edged choir boy overblouse?

Sweaters for girls and boys are mostly bulky, the girls mostly white (wonderful for skating), the boys' mostly charcoal Shetland. For very little boys, Allen's has "I Love Fishing" or "Tennis Anyone?" or, inscrutably "7". Prices start at $3.98 and go up to about $8.98.

At 11:47 p.m. Friday, State Troopers from the Princeton Barracks investigated an accident in front of 117 Washington Road, Penns Neck. There, according to their report, David K. Reeves, 32, of 40 Palmer Square West, crashed his Jaguar into an auto being backed out of a driveway by Princeton Township Patrolman Antonio Diaforli Jr. Mr. Reeves, taken to the hospital by the Princeton First Aid Unit for treatment of deep lacerations of the forehead and other bruises, was later given a ticket for careless driving.

BUILDINGS DEDICATED

New ETS Quarters Christened.

At dedication ceremonies held Monday afternoon, the new Rosedale buildings of Educational Testing Service were formally dedicated. Dr. Henry H. Hill, president of George Peabody College for Teachers and chairman of the Board of Trustees of ETS, presided and Dr. John W. Gardner, president of the Carnegie Corporation and member of the ETS Board was the principal speaker.

Lloyd A. Carver, mayor of Lawrence Township; Dr. Frederick M. Raubinger, commissioner of education for New Jersey; and Dr. James E. Allen, Jr., commissioner of education for New York, brought greetings to ETS. Henry Chauncey, president of ETS, also spoke. The Rev. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the Princeton Univeralty Chapel, gave the invocation and the Right Rev. Monsignor Frederick G. Hochwalt, executive secretary of the National Catholic Educational Association, pronounced the benediction.

ETS' new buildings occupy part of a 340-acre tract in Lawrence Township off Rosedale and Carter Roads. There are three buildings: a two-story Administration Building with 19,000 square feet of space, a one-story Operations Center with 46,800 square feet and a one-story cafeteria. Approximately 550 persons are employed at ETS, at the Rosedale site, at the Shipping Center on Bakers Basin Road and at 20 Nassau Street.

SERVICE BOOKLET OUT

What's What in Princeton. Organizations and services that range from the Princeton Termites (4H) to the Visiting Nurse Association are catalogued in a new booklet published this week by the Princeton Council of Community Services.

The 38-page booklet is the sixth edition of the "Index to Princeton Services," compiled by the Council as a comprehensive guide to Princeton's health and welfare agencies, educational organizations, churches and recreational facilities. The "Index" lists Borough and Township health officers, all voluntary health organizations, local hospitals and the names and medical schools of all physicians, dentists, and other medical specialists.

Nursery schools, public and private secondary schools and institutions of higher learning are also covered, and local churches and their ministers are listed. Groups interested in fencing, square dancing, riding, dramatics and music are also catelogued.

MURDER SUSPECT FOUND

Nabbed in Virginia. State Police report that Leroy Williams, 36, who had been sought in connection with the death of Mrs. Rose Drake of Plainsboro, has been apprehended in Eastville, Va. He is accused of shooting Mrs. Drake with a 16-gauge shotgun in her home on November 23. She died in Princeton Hospital two days later.

According to State Police, the pair had been living together since the summer, and the shooting took place after Mrs. Drake ordered him to leave the house. Two detectives were scheduled to go to Virginia Tuesday to bring the culprit back to Princeton. He will be arraigned next week.

MORRIS IN TEMPERA

Princeton Artist Exhibits. Dudley Morris, well-known Princeton artist, will exhibit several of his recent paintings at The Little Gallery from next Tuesday until December 23.

An unusual feature of the show will be the comments which Mr. Morris has written to accompany each painting. The comments do not tell the story of the pictures, but they suggest some of the ideas that motivated the artist and they suggest new ways in which the viewer can "see" the picture.

All paintings are executed in tempera on gesso panels. This method gives the artist freedom to use great detail but at the same time allows him to make certain areas hazy and atmospheric.

Dudley Morris has shown in New York galleries, particularly the Maynard Walker, and in national exhibitions. He has written and illustrated several children's books and is currently chairman of the art department at The Lawrenceville School where he has taught for 20 years. His paintings were last shown by The Little Gallery in 1956.

A TOAST TO REPEAL: John Griffin (right) and Josef Christen lift a toast to the Repeal of Prohibition at the latter's place of business, Lahiere's Restaurant, where he enjoyed his first legal drink 25 years ago this Friday. For theirs and other memories of that memorable December 5 in 1933, see Question of the Week below.

Question of the Week

Question: This Friday (December 5) marks the 25th anniversary of the Repeal of Prohibition. Do you remember where you had your first legal drink?

Location: Downtown Princeton.

Josef Christen, 661 Prospect Avenue Extension, proprietor of Lahiere's Restaurant: I had my first legal drink right here—a glass of Burgundy wine. We had been in business—without a bar, of course—since 1920. I remember how good that first drink tasted because I knew it meant the end of much corruption. Youngsters had been getting sick and even dying from bootleg liquor. It really was terrible.

John Griffin, Nassau Club, retired Army officer: At the Astor Bar in New York. A friend of my parents was our host for the evening. As I recall, he ordered the first bottle of champagne served at the Astor that memorable afternoon — and he also picked up the tab. From there, we went to Radio City to see Ed Wynn, the Fire Chief. My date was a very pretty girl who later married my best friend.

Elmer Stout, Trenton, bartender at the Nassau Tavern: I remember very well. It was the Bramble Inn in Point Pleasant, Pennsylvania, the former summer home of famous opera singer Mary Gardner. My father-in-law operated it as a roadhouse during Prohibition and I worked there as a bartender. We just stopped to toast Repeal, and kept right on serving drinks.

Mrs. Jack Henderson, Princeton Pike, Lawrenceville, saleswoman at Rosette Pennington: I'm not sure, but it was probably Joe King's German-American on Third Avenue. It was my favorite spot for a date at that time!

Leonard Hymerling 297 Jefferson Road, secretary of Lewis C. Bowers & Sons Inc.: I remember having my first legal drink at a beer party while at the University of Pennsylvania. As I recall, we whooped 'er up all afternoon—you might say we rushed the holiday season a little. On my 20th wedding anniversary two weeks ago, 19 people who attended that 1933 Penn party showed up for a reunion.

Richard Chorlton, Trenton, architect: Several fellows and myself were walking down Greenwood Avenue in Trenton, when we noticed there was a party in full swing in almost every house. We didn't realize exactly what was going on, but we stopped at the next pub and each drank a beer. I don't remember the name of the bar—only that the beer tasted pretty good.

Edward Lyden, 409-A Butler Avenue, research assistant in Princeton University's geology department: I remember vividly—it was a Friday night. Two other boys and I chipped in together to buy a bottle of beer in a Long Island delicatessan. We left a rather long and dull meeting to enjoy what we considered a real lark.

Night To Remember

On December 5, 1933, at precisely 5:33 p.m. (EST), the Repeal of Prohibition became official, ending a 13-year era of unparalleled gangsterism and lawlessness in the United States. At that time, the late sage of Baltimore, H. L. Mencken, succinctly summed up the meaning of Repeal: "The restoration of one of the common liberties of the people."

At 5:33, according to Cue magazine, comic Joe Weber, the bearded, stubby half of the vaudeville team of Weber and Fields, consumed the first glass of premium champagne poured in the Hunting Room of the Hotel Astor. Such a report would seem to indicate that Princetonian John Griffin (see Question of the Week, this page) was a guest of Mr. Weber, or perhaps was celebrating the great occasion in another room of the joyous Astor—or maybe quite a few celebrants scored a New York "first" at the Astor that historic evening.

No matter who drank the first legal drink, a number of Americans will drink to the 25th birthday of Repeal, including Uncle Sam. Public revenues resulting from a quarter-century of Repeal are just short of $62,000,000,000. That's billions, and enough to run the U. S. government for its first 130 years, 1789-1919, including the cost of World War I.

At Weiss Clothing, in the Shopping Center, there are boys sport shirts in both regular and husky sizes.

Allen's thinks one of the nicest boy's presents is a tie and belt set, $1.98. Colors are grey, red or olive and the pattern a cautious paisley that wouldn't offend young conservatives.

The Knitting Shop has ready-made hand-knit stocking caps (if you're a grandmother, you can feel 'em into blinking you knit one) for $4.95 and Allen's has a long Christmas stocking cap.

Hulit's puts slipper sox on young feet, and produces a minute red velvet slipper with black bow and black lining (also reverse). There is a slipper lined with lambs wool for $6.95 and a very glamorous young moccasin in white for.

Pakman, the jeweler on Witherspoon Street, has charm bracelets for 75 cents and little girls' rings, many with genuine stones, for $10.50 and up. At Thorne's, the favorite little girl gift is Coty's Fairy Princess, in soaps, bath powder, cologne, lotions. One kit looks like a little dressing table and there is a very exciting atomizer. Buy a set, send an extra $1 with the attached coupon and you get a seven-inch doll. Tussy presents Budding Beauty with similar accoutrements. Wise mothers will buy and protect their own cosmetics thereby.

On the Road. If this is a bike year in your family, you might buy one at Van Zandt's, Blawenburg, and give it a test-ride home.

Other wheeled goods are at Urken and Tiger where prices start at $34.95 for a full-size bike. Tricycles, scooters in both stores, and at Tiger a gold-finish convertible with pedals that will burn up the road. Tractors here go from $15.95 to a $28.75 giant that will cultivate all of Mercer County.

For Mind and Eye. Two excellent new books this year for young, developing libraries. We found them at Stuff and Pastimes. One is a child's edition of Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us" with full text and abundant illustrations from every source you can imagine ($4.95). The other is the Golden Geographic Encyclopedia ($7.95) with 450 maps, drawings and specially keyed illustrations. Print rather fine, but then there's a lot of it to fit in.

and World of Christopher Robin for aficionados, and some English pop-up books of fairy tales. You'll like the Sleeping Beauty's castle.

Princeton Radio Center has a terrestrial-celestial telescope (Stuff, too) and some prepared slides of insect mouths, microorganisms, parasite worms, pollen and textile fibres. The microscopes to match are available also. Gilbert has an Astronomical telescope which we found at Pastimes, $11.98 for 40 power.

At Mail Camera, you may choose from the Castle Films collection of 8 or 16 mm. sound or silent films. There's a Mickey Mouse, Woody the Woodpecker, a sports parade, Abbott and Costello and a travelogue.

All Boy. On the theory that some boys play with things besides guns, we present the following: Radio Center's Tri-Pacer flying model, for radio control, your control or free flight, 37-inch wing span, $9.95; gas model planes, ready to run, from $6.95 (see Mail Camera, too.)

Radio Center's crystal or one-tube sets to make yourself, and Stuff's pendulum clock you make yourself; the soft plastic fire truck, Navy plane and cargo boat at Tiger; the Geiger counter on the Urken counter.

Sports Illustrated. Hulit's sends you off to the rink on girls' white figure skates, from size 13, from $9.95. Boys' hockey skates are $19.95.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

MIDSHIPMAN SPEAKER: Midshipman James F. Tidd, Brunswick Pike, will speak on the Naval Academy at clubs and civic organizations during his Christmas vacation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Tidd.

At Urken and Tiger, there are sled skates and double runner skates for the young and uncertain (old and uncertain fend for themselves), and standard figure and hockey skates from size 12.

Pastimes. Urken and Tiger have sports equipment of every kind: baseball mitts, football helmets, shoulder pads, pants, basketballs and baskets. Hockey sticks, punching bags, bows, arrows and skis. Urken's offers the Sno-hmnoc: a foot-wide ski with a seat to go zoom on: $11.95.

Tricks Are Treats. Jokes and tricks are wonderful for a stocking, and many shops have them up their sleeves. We like a big one at Pastimes. It's a dynamite blaster that "blows up everything harmlessly" and comes complete with quarry and rocks. Hide it or you'll be sorry New Year's morning. It makes quite a boom.

Urken's has spherical plastic eyes that hang from slinkys. You wear them like glasses: 69 cents. Kung Ping has a lovely jointed wooden snake, and some Japanese rings that you pull in and out, making different designs as you do so. There's a money tree with flickering metal discs and goodluck charms and a paper fish that's out for no good.

Pastimes has a leaning tower of Pisa like jack-straws, and a pet mouse you work from beneath to frighten little girls and make them squeal. The Radio Center has spilled ink and flies and all sorts of tricks which we won't mention or we'll spoil the joke.

65 Years Of Triangle

Currently on view in the Theatre Collection (second floor) of the University Library is a new exhibition entitled "Sixty-five Years of the Triangle Club," a panoramic picture of the most famous of college musical shows in words and photographs. The exhibition designed and executed by William W. Lockwood Jr., will remain on display through December 18.

The files of both the club and the Theatre Collection have been combed to present a program from every show from the first, "The Honorable Julius Caesar" in 1893, to 1957's "After a Fashion," plus new and old photos. Included among unusual items of interest are the original manuscript of "East of the Sun," hit song from the 1934-35 production, "Stags at Bay," and a 1913 letter confirming plans for a White House reception of the Triangle Club by President Wilson after its Washington performance.

Prominent throughout the colorful display are the contributions of Triangle's notable alumni: Booth Tarkington as Cassius in "Caesar," a "moon-June" lyric by young F. Scott Fitzgerald, a boyish, curly-haired Joshua Logan in "The Tiger Smiles" (1930) and a dashing Jimmy Stewart, complete with sinister moustache as a cavalier in 1931's "Spanish Blades."

EXPANSION AT BELLOWS

New Departments Added. Occupancy of additional space in its 206-208 Nassau Street address has permitted Bellows, Inc. to offer a broader selection of merchandise in its numerous apparel lines. Women's wear in greater variety is now available for misses, junior misses and petite sizes, while infants' and children's wear—the shop's original field—has likewise been enlarged.

Established eight years ago at 20 Nassau Street, Bellows moved to its present location in 1954. Following renovations and alterations in the building at the corner of Nassau and Moore, it has now occupied sufficient additional space so that it has doubled its size.

"Our desire in expansion," Mr. Bellows remarked this week, "is to serve a larger clientele with the same high standards of quality and selection as in all our children's departments." The line now includes coats, suits, dresses (before and after 5), sportswear, accessories, intimate apparel, millinery and shoes.

SECRETARIAL SERVICE

Offers Temporary Help. Mrs. Leanette Wald, until recently the co-proprietor of Wald's Gift Shop on Palmer Square, has organized a new Princeton secretarial service, Temporary Office Help. From her own office (WA 4-3770), the director of TOH will supply

NEW POST: Dr. Erwin Donath has been elevated to a new position by ASCOP. For details, see Business in Princeton.

BRYNNWOOD AT PRINCETON: This model, the Swathmore, and two others are on display at Poe Road and Shadybrook Lane as part of the Brynnwood development. The seven-room, two-car garage split model now nearing completion features a 22 foot panelled recreation room, three oversized bedrooms and 2½ baths. The lots are three-quarter acre.

businesses with experienced secretarial help on a daily or weekly basis, and also will handle some of the assignments herself.

Commenting on the new organization this week, Mrs. Wald said, "This type of operation has gone over very well in New York City, and I believe Princeton has grown enough so that there will be a demand for our services here." Included in these "services" will be clerks, typists, stenographers, secretaries — and free-lance typists and stenographers on an hourly basis.

Before coming to Princeton and setting up the gift shop with her husband, Mrs. Wald was a private secretary for 16 years, half of the time with an engineer and the rest with a transportation company.

DONATH GIVEN NEW POST

Named Technical V.P. at ASCOP. Dr. Erwin Donath has been appointed to the newly created post of technical vice-president of the Applied Science Corporation of Princeton. In his new position, Dr. Donath will supervise the operation of the company's instrumentation division, which develops and produces equipment for transmitting and receiving information from missiles and airplanes.

He will also be responsible for all of ASCOP's technical operations, from advanced research and development through final product design and marketing. "Centralization of all technical activities under one administrator-engineer will strengthen and add impetus to ASCOP's operations," president Thomas C. Robert commented.

Dr. Donath joined the electronics firm in 1948 and became chief engineer in 1953. During his three-year tenure as chief engineer, ASCOP developed a patented line of equipment to be used on the ground for processing information from missiles and airplanes.

For the last two years, Dr. Donath has directed the company's long-range research and development program. This had produced new techniques for processing such information as vibration data in a missile before transmitting it to the ground.

'PERSONAL' PHOTOGRAPHER

Will Take Home Portraits. Harriet Arnold, a professional photographer who has done work for major national magazines, is now taking home portraits of Princeton residents. She has used Princeton residents as models for much of her work during the past 10 years and has decided to do some "more personal photography" here.

Miss Arnold has her headquarters in New York City but comes to Princeton for the weekend. She stays with her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Thompson of 611 Lake Drive, who will act as her Princeton agent, making arrangements for the home portraits.

Pictures taken by Miss Arnold in Princeton have appeared in "Better Homes and Gardens," "American Home," "Better Living," and "Farm Journal." Among the interesting people she has recently photographed are: Bob Feller, Dinah Shore and George Montgomery, Hoagy Carmichael, John Daley and his family and the Gordon MacRaes.

SOUP TO COFFEE

Il fiasco Enlarges Menu. Soups will be added to coffee and sandwiches on the new menu at Il fiasco, the coffee shop at 164 Nassau.

Open for luncheon from noon until 2:30, it will now serve velouté aux champignons, aux asperges, aux oeufs and aux pois verts. There will also be potage aux crepes for those who do not care for mushroom, asparagus, egg-drop or green pea.

JEFFERS ELECTED

Walker-Gordon Chooses Treasurer. Henry W. Jeffers, III, was elected treasurer of the Walker-Gordon Laboratory Company of Plainsboro at the annual stockholders meeting.

A graduate of the School of Agriculture of Rutgers, Mr. Jeffers attended Harvard Business School and served for six months in the Army. He has been with Walker-Gordon for two years. The Jeffers family has been associated with Walker-Gordon since the earliest days of the company.

WINTER SEASON BEGINS

Hockey Game on Saturday. In a refurbished Baker Rink that has benefiteed from new sideboards, additional protective screening and a fancy new ice-making machine, Princeton's hockey team will meet an alumni outfit Saturday afternoon at 4. The motorized ice-maker first scrapes the surface to smooth it, then spreads a thin layer of hot water and the net result is new ice on the entire area in a matter of five minutes.

The alumni contest will be followed next weekend by games against two of the stronger teams in the east. Boston College will be here Friday night, December 12, at 8, with Boston University on hand Saturday afternoon at 2. The Tiger skaters will not be at home again until January 8 when they entertain St. Lawrence and after American International College is here on the 13th, there is no further Rink action until February 11.

Tigers a Young Team. Only one senior will be among the first six players that Dick Vaughan has selected for his starters. Pete Cook of Kingston, son of the freshman hockey coach, will center the first line, with Tony Pell and John McBride on the wings. All are juniors.

Captain Morris Cheston, the lone senior, and Junior Tom Campbell will constitute the first line of defense and rank as a stronger pair than the Tigers have had at these positions in some time. A pair of sophomores will alternate in the goal, with Barry Van Gerbig, captain of the freshman team that ran up a fine 9-2 record, picked as the starter. Cliff Michael will also be given a shot at tending the cage.

Others who are scheduled to play on the line this season are senior John Hill, Fuller Torrey and Locke McLean and a sophomore trio of Chris Gordon, Bill Miller and Nick Carper. Hugh Scott, standout tailback for the football team, has reported following the end of the fall season, while Country Day alumni Lence Odden and Dave Peterson are the latest in the many PCD graduates to wear Orange and Black.

Hopes are that the Tigers can better last year's 8-11 mark and move upward from their fifth-place Ivy finish, but it will take some doing. Although Harvard does not figure to make a runaway of the race as it has for the past three years, the Crimson is still favored.

Dartmouth, too, appears to be strong, with Princeton hopes centered on toppling Brown and possibly Yale in the standings. Newcomer Cornell figures to be the doormat for a couple of seasons until hockey grows in strength at Ithaca.

The 1958-59 Schedule:

Dec. 6, Alumni; 12, Boston College; 13, Boston University; 18, Northeastern at Cambridge; 19, Providence at Providence; January 1, 2, 3, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Tournament at Troy; 8, St. Lawrence; 10, Brown () at Providence; 13, American International College; 17, Dartmouth () at Hanover; 31, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy.

February 2, Middlebury at Middlebury; 3, Army at West Point; 7, Cornell () at Ithaca; 11, Brown (); 14, Yale (); 17, St. Nicholas Hockey Club; 21, Harvard (); 25, Yale () at New Haven; 28, Cornell (); March 4, Harvard () at Cambridge; 7, Dartmouth ().

QUINTET A QUESTION-MARK

Tigers' Ability in Doubt. How good is a basketball team that has unusual natural shooting ability but is also unusually slow and, in addition, lacks experienced reserves? Princeton's quintet hopes to prove in the next month that it will be in the Ivy League battle right down to the early March wire, but there are a number of questions that must first be answered.

The Tigers have satisfactory height, with Captain Carl Belz and Joe Burns both 6-5 under the NEW CAPTAIN: Frank Szvetecz, Princeton's fine center, will lead Tigers' 1959 football team. He was named this week to the All-East team of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, the only junior so honored.

Tiley and Heyd Honored

Captain Fred Tiley and Johnny Heyd, the two senior members of Princeton's 1958 backfield this week, were joint winners of the Poe Cup. It is awarded annually for "ability . . . loyalty and devotion to Princeton's football interests . . . perseverance and determination under discouraging conditions, observance of the rules of the game and fairness towards opponents."

Tiley, who started every game of his varsity career save four he missed when he fractured his collarbone as a sophomore, drew Dick Colman's praise this week as "a hard-hitting fullback who keeps the defenses honest and a fine blocker as well as an admirable team leader." Heyd, a triple-threat who saw duty both as tailback and wingback, during his three years of action, was cited by his coach as "a splendid team player, an opportunist and extremely tough physically." Only 165 pounds, he was named to the Associated Press All-Ivy Team as a halfback.

KEN KEUFFEL

Lawrenceville Coach

When he was handed the head coach's assignment at Lawrenceville School three seasons ago, and thereupon decided to install single wing football, little did Ken Keuffel anticipate big success in short order. But his 1958 Red and Black team fooled him—in just the right way. It built a perfect 7-0 record and, in giving the nearby prep school one of its finest grid combinations, defeated each opponent by a minimum of three touchdowns.

"Defensively, we were terrific," Keuffel observed, stressing a fact that has been overshadowed by the Lawrentians' scoring power. "This was not surprising," he said, "because we had only one newcomer on our great first team, which had only two touchdowns scored against it. The boys had learned our system." The "boys," averaging 17 years in age, have allowed their foes an average of less than five points per game in the past three years, and this fall their seven victories included four shutouts.

Despite the fact that Lawrenceville's captain, Denis Ossorio, a guard on defense, a tackle on offense and a leader always, probably will earn a berth on every all-state eleven selected, Keuffel admitted it was difficult for him to offer all-state recommendations this season. "Balance was our best feature," the head coach noted. "We had seven or eight players who might be considered for all-state positions." Indeed, Lawrenceville "balance" was responsible for Choate School's sole loss of the campaign, and it also permitted Keuffel to clear his bench in six of seven contests.

Keuffel, whose name is well-known by football followers because he kicked the vitally needed field goal which gave Princeton a 17-14 upset triumph over mighty Penn in 1946, will take a little more from Penn next month—a doctorate degree in English (with a thesis on satire). "One reason I would like to stay here at Lawrenceville," the former pro performer (Philadelphia Eagles) confided, "is the fact that I can teach English and coach football at the same time. It's hectic in the fall, but I want to do both."

Asked the usual question about "how many starters will be heading for Princeton after graduation," Keuffel said, "I make it a practice not to exert any pressure on the boys regarding college. It wouldn't be fair if I did." Fortunately for Old Nassau, however, "Dick Colman will be the speaker at our football banquet—and I have a bunch three of the nine starters we're losing already have Princeton in mind."

boards. This won't match every team they'll meet, but some will be smaller and it will average out. Jim Brangan ranks as one of the better 6-4 operatives and the Princetonians should not be out rebounded often if their determination matches their potential.

It is in lack of mobility that the Tigers will run into difficulty, although they proved last season that no team in the league was good enough to trim them twice. Included in this were victories over Yale at New Haven and Dartmouth at Hanover. The Indians went on to win the title with a good 11-3 mark, Yale and Princeton deadlocking for second at 9-5.

Expectations are that Dartmouth will repeat, with Cornell and Yale the most likely challengers. Princeton may have a battle on its hands to finish in first division unless its defensive ability improves over last season.

The Tigers will go to Easton this Saturday to play Lafayette, after having opened their season Wednesday with a game against Hofstra. Temple will be in Dillon Gym Wednesday and Navy will be here next Saturday. Both games start at 8 o'clock.

"NO-NOTHING" TEAM?

Or Has PHS Got Something?

Despite the fact that Princeton High School's 1958-59 varsity basketball team has no captain, no height of note and "no comment" thus far from its head coach, there are many who believe it is something more than a "no-nothing" club — and that the proof will be in the pudding. These hopefuls won't have to wait long to see if they're right, for the Little Tigers will start testing their pudding next Tuesday, when they travel to Neptune for a traditional afternoon opener with the Scarlet Flyers.

A year ago, with nine holdover lettermen in the fold, Princeton experienced trouble edging the shore city five, 56-54, in a down-to-the-wire thriller. This year with only three P-wearers back to defend the honor of the Blue and White, Tony Borzok — commencing his sixth season at the PHS helm — won't make any predictions. In fact, he can't, because he doesn't know what he has in the way of a varsity after two full weeks of practice.

Borzok has indicated he will not pick his starting five until game time next Tuesday, and then he will no doubt do a lot of experimenting before he settles on his top six or seven performers. As of mid-week, he was working with a varsity squad of 16 or 17 candidates, emphasizing speed and drive to offset the Little Tigers' alarming dearth of "big boys."

Tony Boccanfuso, who scored 276 points in 19 games for a creditable 14.5 average last season, probably will open at one of the forward posts for Princeton, with lettermen Bill Stryker and Doug (Motorcycle) Hayes possible starters at center and guard, respectively. Others expected to receive earnest consideration for starting berths are Jack Hawkins, Jack Lackey, Marty McGuinn and Julius (Butch) Cross, up from last winter's so-so junior varsity (11-7), and Jim Barbour, standout freshman player in 1957-58.

Assisted once again by George Povlaitis, who has done a fine job with the jayvee material in recent campaigns, Borzok will lead the Blue and White through a rugged 19-game regular schedule. Steinert High of Trenton will be the sole new opponent on the slate, while Lawrenceville is back as a February foe and home-and-home contests have been arranged with Mercer County rivals Trenton High, Hamilton, Ewing and Hightstown.

HUN HOPES HIGH

Opener Next Tuesday. Hun School's varsity basketball team, which began official practice sessions for the coming season just this past Monday, will open its schedule against Bryn Athyn next Tuesday afternoon. The game is set for 3:30 in the Theological Seminary gymnasium on Hibben Road, home court for the Princeton quintet.

The Red and Black club lost five seniors through graduation, including Captain Chuck Barren and No. 1 scorer George Cramer, but nonetheless will be able to muster a reasonably fast, reasonably tall and reasonably experienced five. On hand will be lettermen Tom Horwich, 5-foot 9-inch captain; Tommy Petrone, 5-foot 9-inch Princeton sophomore; Bruce Barren, 6-foot 2-inch brother of last season's leader; and John Scop, 6-foot 1-inch bruiser, plus holdover reserves Alan Frank of Princeton, Lou D'Ambrosio and Ted Pettus.

George Selleck, former Stanford cage star and present Seminary student, will serve as Hun's coach for the second straight campaign. Last year, his charges recorded a 9-7 mark, a big improvement over the previous winter, when they won only two contests. Letter-winner Cal Stanny, with academic problems, and promising junior prospect John Ward, with wrestling plans, will not participate in basketball — as anticipated—but Selleck still has high hopes of doing as well or better than last year.

BOWLING NOTES

Too Much Turkey? Place the blame wherever you will, but scores fell off appreciably at Princeton Recreation Center this past — perhaps most influenced by the distraction of Thanksgiving and related functions. Only eight male keglers rolled 200-plus games, while the Tri-County Firemen's League took no chances by postponing their weekly competition due to the holiday.

Bill Bathie's 226 in the Printeby postponing their weekly ton "A" loop and Bob Zandanel's 224 in the Industrial loop were tops for the week, Bathie being trailed in his circuit by Jack Procaccino, 209, John Coleman, 207, and George Duryea, 205 , and Zandanel being followed by John Maier, 210-212, Rudy Lehnert, 207, and Bob Sapel, 205. Among the girls, Barbara Danser and Helen Scott hit 208 and 207, respectively, in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, and Sue D'Angelo's 187 was high in the Women's Industrial League.

Also on the distaff side, Liz Barclay bowled 192 in the PWBL, pursued by Betty Harris, 181, Marge Bloom, 178, Betty Kleiber, 177, Dot Moore, 174, and Carol Lisi, 170. In the Women's Industrial loop, Marilyn Silvester registered a 183, Betty Kleiber a 178 and Eleanore Mansue a 176.

Team-wise, the "A" circuit featured two major developments: Tiger Garage again deadlocked Hulit's Shoes in first place (46 wins apiece) and Nelson Glass jumped from ninth place (in a 10-team league) to a sixth position tie with the Knights of Columbus (34 each). Maul Electric (49) regained the top spot in the Princeton "B" League, just ahead of Food Machinery Chemical No. 1 and Jefferson Plumbing (47 apiece), and, in the Industrial loop, Gable Tavern (44) stayed atop the heap as Maier & Baldwin (42) took second place from Para Lab Supply, now in a third place tie with the Reformers (36 each).

Town Topics (58) lengthened its lead a bit in the PWBL as Tiger Bus deadlocked Cranbury Pharmacy (55 apiece) in the runner-up slot. Among the women industrialists, Nassau Service (65) lost a little ground to Decker's (63) and the Lucky Strikes (61).

BELLES OF THE (BOWLING) BALL: Until two weeks ago, Betty Cooper (left) could claim the highest single game earned by a distaff kegler in league competition at Princeton Recreation Center for quite a spell—a fine 234. Then, along came Betty Kleiber, who already had posted a 563 series (highest for a woman for several years), and she registered a nifty 235. So far this season, 10 distaffers have produced games of 200 or better. (Chachkawski Photo)

Fine Work by Fire Department.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The members of the Princeton Fire Department merit high praise for their prompt and efficient work at the High School fire on Thanksgiving afternoon.

As a result of their rapid and expert actions, they were able to confine the fire to its point of origin, the girls' gymnasium. The efficiency in removing the debris and in cleaning out excess water when the fire was extinguished kept damage to the gym floor and other otherwise unharmed areas to an absolute minimum.

The Board of Education, the school administrators and the faculty express their sincere gratitude for this important service. The entire community is indebted to them.

Before the show, Trinity's congregation elected several important officers for the forthcoming year. Hugh D. Wise, Jr., was elected Senior Warden and John H. Wallace, Jr., Junior Warden.

George W. Griffing, Foster D. Jemison and Whitney J. Oates were elected Vestrymen. Three members of the parish were chosen to represent Trinity next May at the Diocesan Convention. They are C. Reginald Bishop, Jr., Charles T. Cravenhoven, Jr. and Everett S. Wallis.
